Land o

1. Through the days of doing school work there comes a time to get back to the basics of leisure . . . in other words, it's time to party.

2. We meet April Peveto, Denise Rothermel, Stacey Sylvester, and Julie Dudek at the Halloween dance. They will be your guides through this LAND OF CONFUSION.

3. A favorite pastime for Christy Cyphers, Sarah Pfeiffer, and Melanie Newbold is rearranging lockers. Sound dull? Well, it's not around M-O high. Some of these lockers are quite interesting . . . While we wait for them to pick up this mess, we'll stop and play a few games of Foose ball with Jeff Roberts on the table he built in industrial arts.

4. We're going to take this bridge to the outside of this mad world, even though it is a little shaky from the floods we had in September.

Confusion

Genies

Guess what? We were in luck! The current was strong and we lost our tour guides! Stacy Golay, Brad Harman, and Christine Anthis are really glad they wore "Jams" today. The "coke" machine is a good place to end this tour.

What's this? Shaunna Peretto, Shelly Reece, Rosetta Bircket, and Stephanie Newbolt are definitely happy about being out of the classroom and into the fun, fun, fun . . .

6. Why do we need a rubber raft? Did the loud speaker say, "No swimming and please don't feed the alligators?" What is this place? The loud speaker just said this was Mulhall, but we don't believe it. Maybe the current is strong enough for us to float out of here . . .

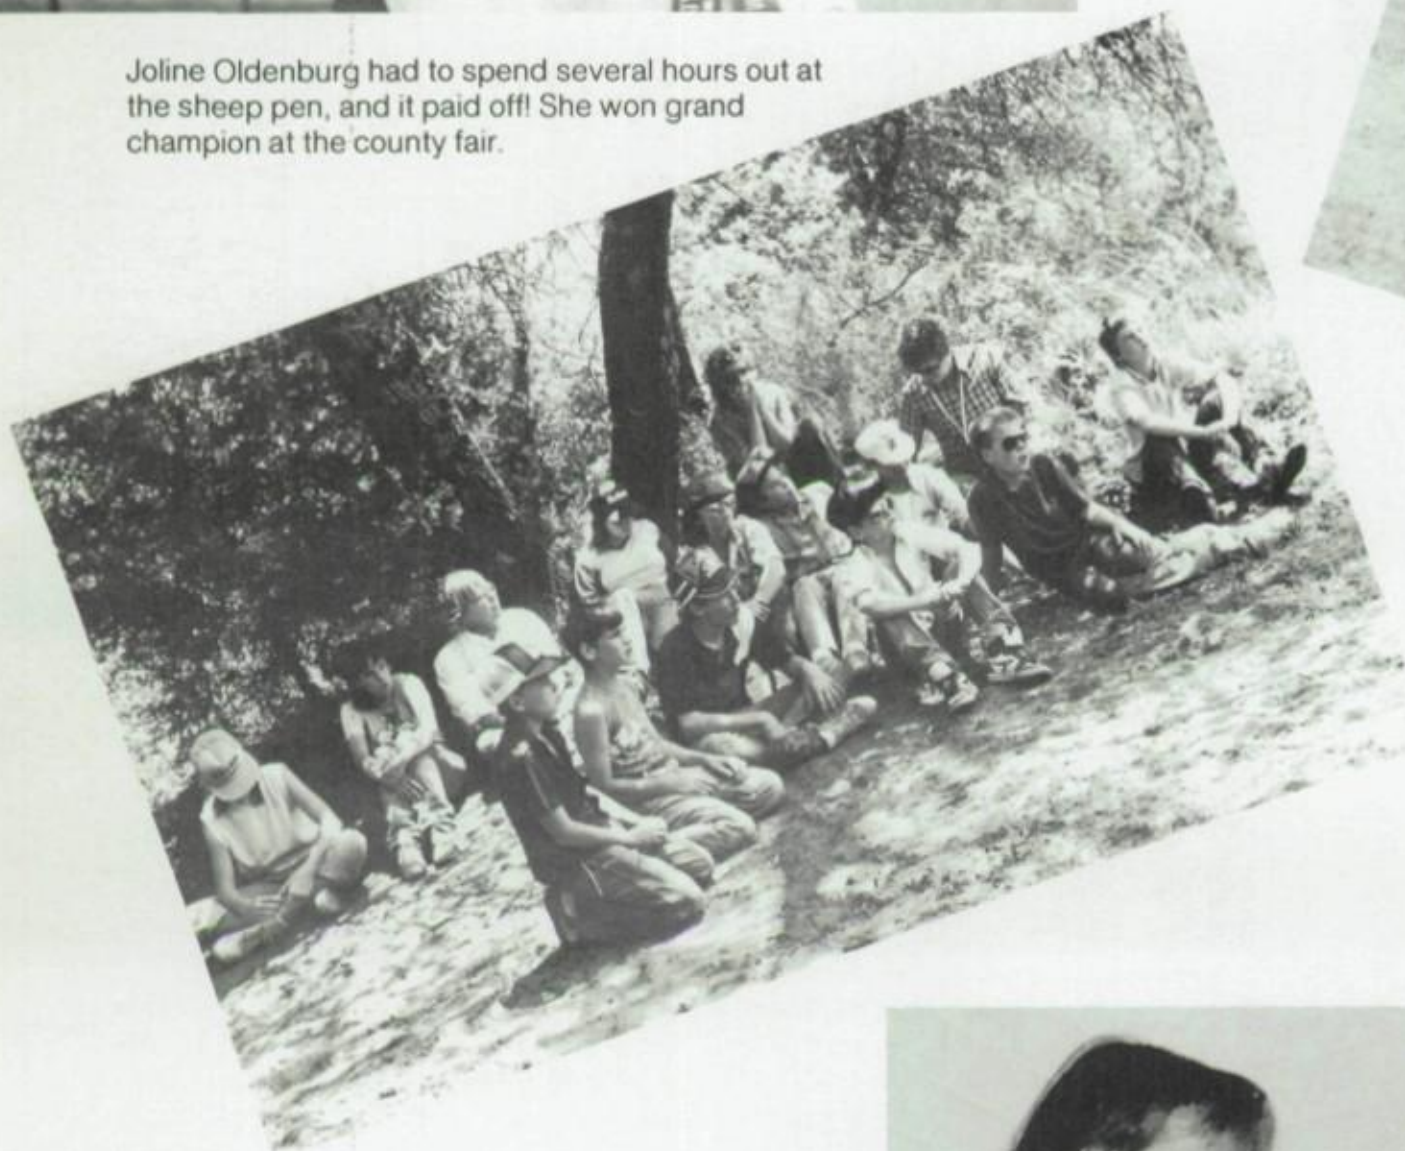

This is our kind of place . . . loud music, good food, and wild people. Wow, what a place to live. Too bad we can't live in this LAND OF CONFUSION forever, but we have to be flying off to the normal everyday life of books, teachers, and long bus rides . . . but we'll always be able to laugh because we know there is a LAND OF CONFUSION out there somewhere.

The routine of readin', writin', and 'rithmetic is fascinating we admit, but getting OUTDOORS is 'neato.'

Joline Oldenburg had to spend several hours out at the sheep pen, and it paid off! She won grand champion at the county fair.

Every spring the sixth graders go to Guthrie to the Outdoor Education Workshop. RADical!

Can you find the hidden Santa? (right) Ashley and Amber Miller can hardly wait to tell him they want a sled so they can play outdoors in the snow.

Easter eggs! Wow! Julie Gallaway (front) and Amber McManamy (right) wonder where to look for the perfect egg.

Fascination

(BELOW) Anthony Redman thinks he's found the lost eggs, but Mrs. Kindschi checks the baskets of Paul Driskel, Tommy Wray, and Tiffany Graef too.

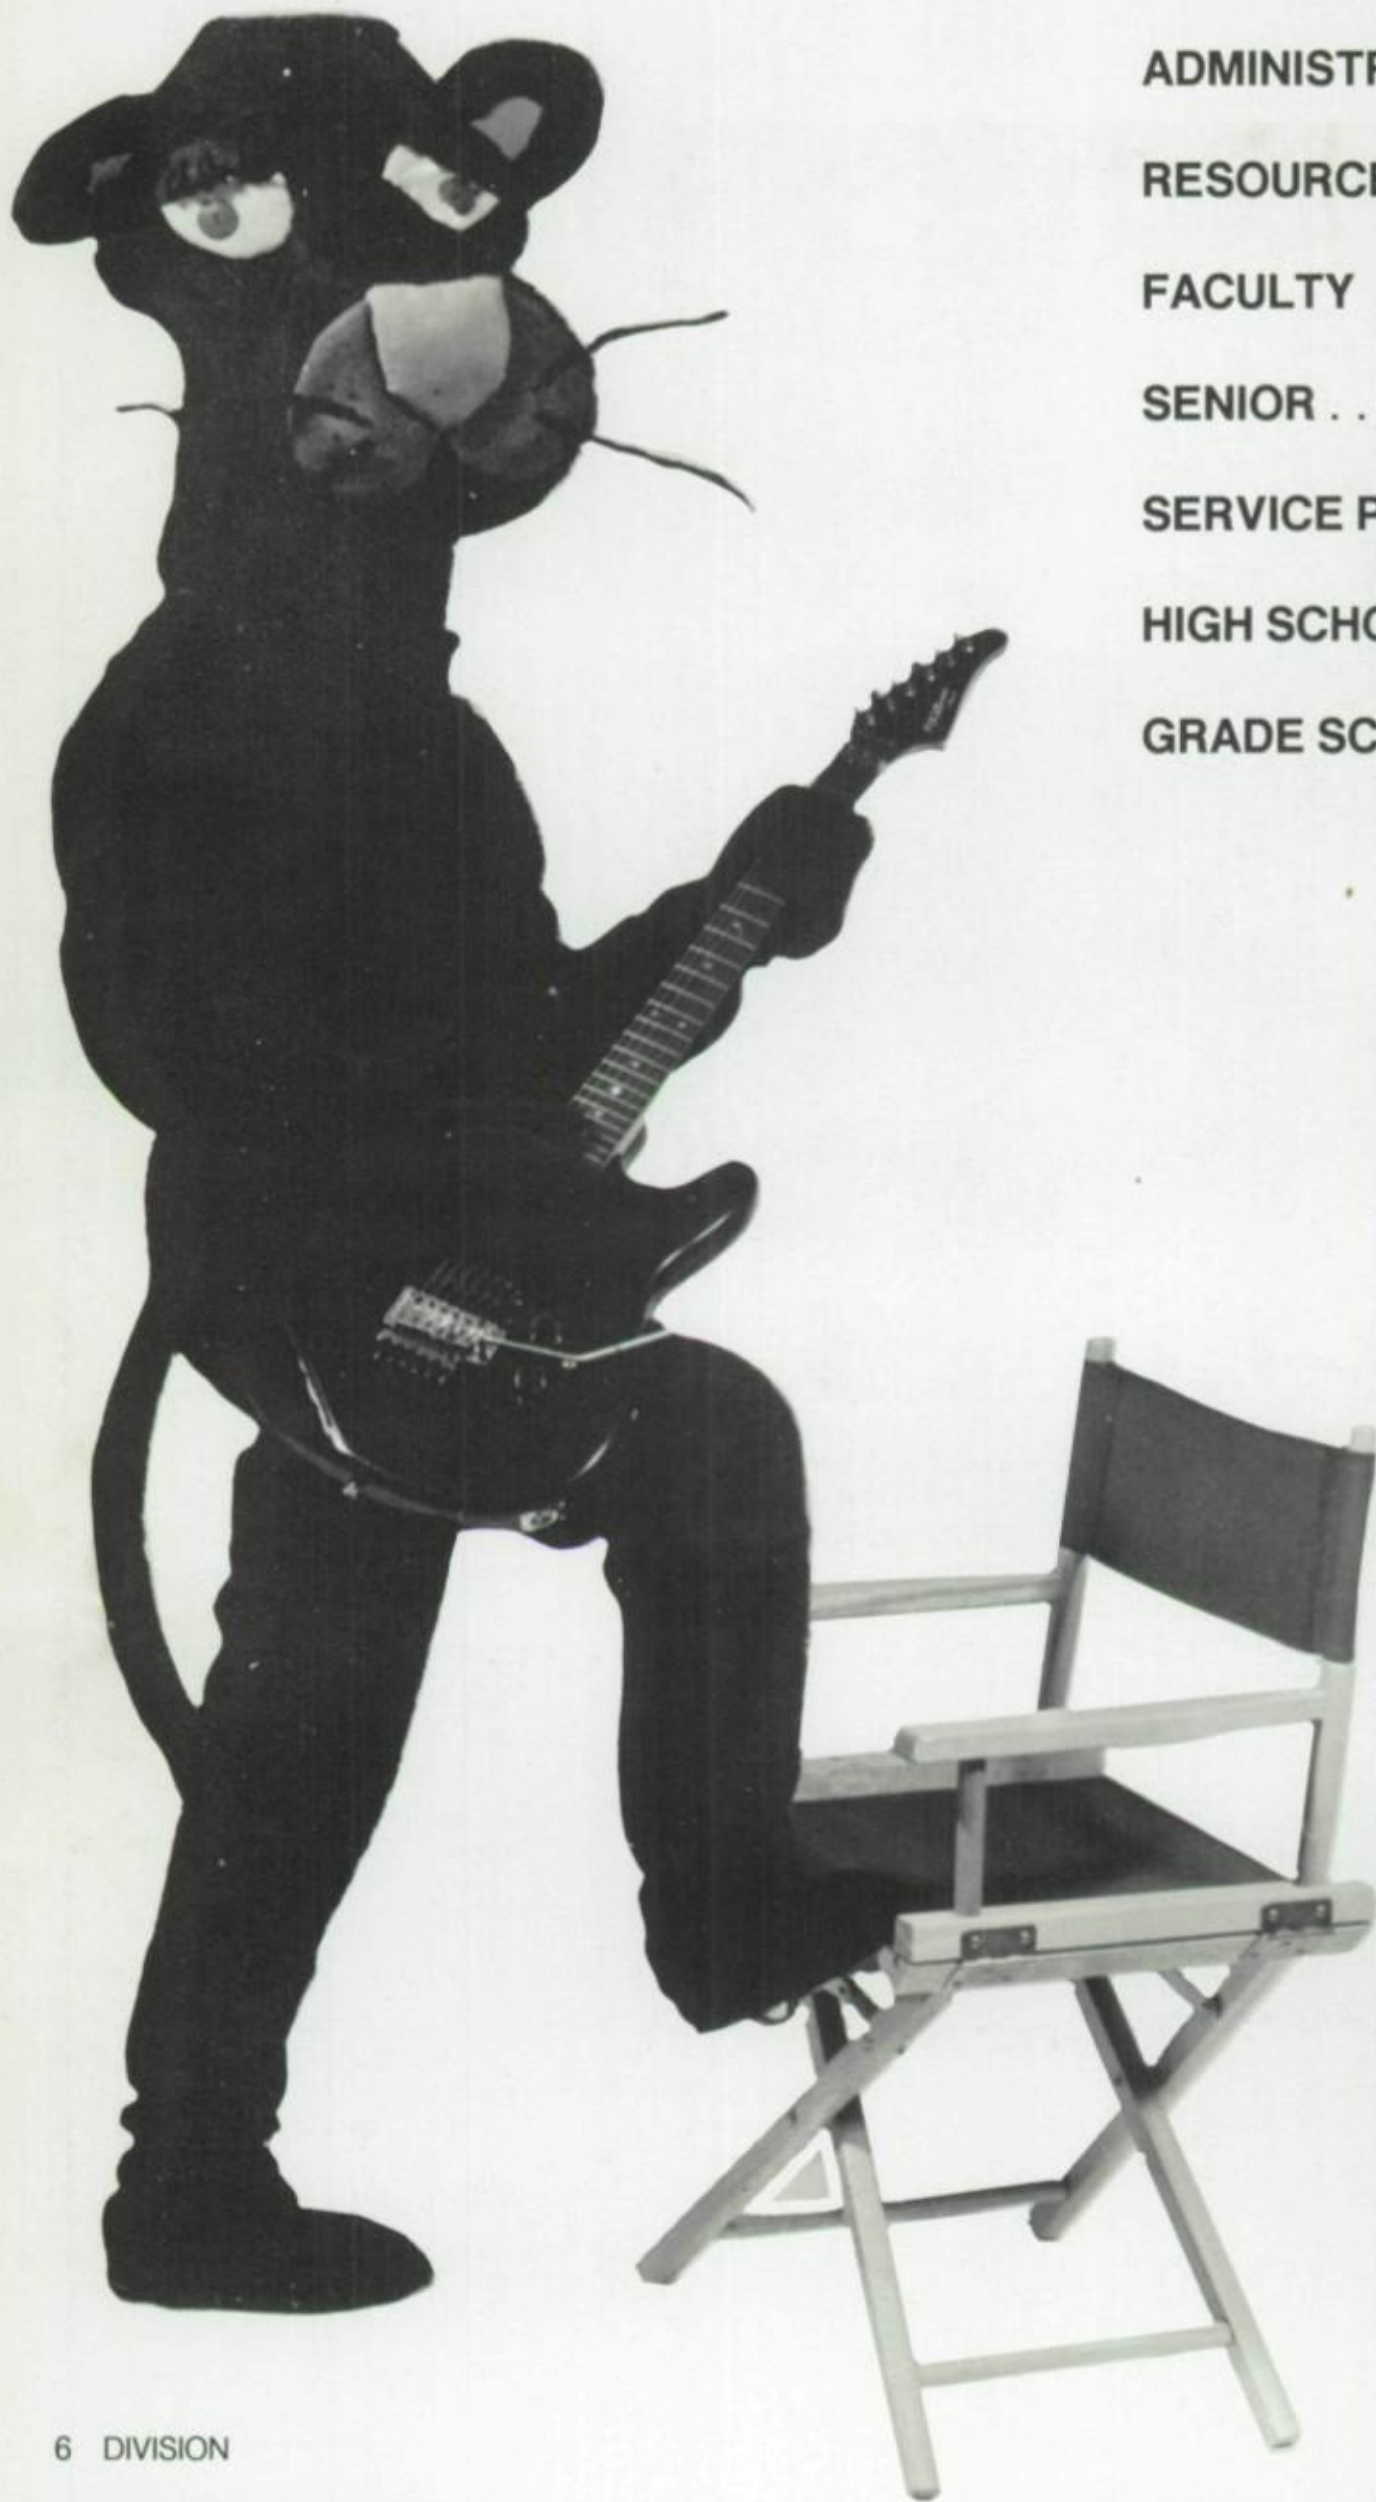

(ABOVE) Twelve inches of snow! Totally awesome! Cool! Not much fun for the bus drivers, but for Cody Leach and Mark Silvers it's time to make snowballs.

As you can see, M-O grade school students believe that all the outside activities bring a lot of FASCINATION to their school life.

The 1987 yearbook staff would like to dedicate this year's book to Mrs. Peggy Yost. Mrs. Yost has taught at Mulhall-Orlando Elementary School for 18 years, and before the schools consolidated she taught home economics at Mulhall. She has helped with many sixth grade graduations and prepared many kids for the new high school life. Mrs. Yost is not just a teacher, she is a great friend. The yearbook staff wishes her many more happy years to come.

SCHOOLS

Peggy Yost

Mrs. Yost has taught at Mulhall since the fall of 1966, except the 1971-72 school year. She taught home economics until 1968 when she became an elementary school teacher. This year she is serving as part-time principal.

Stacey Harris

Mr. Harris came to Mulhall in the fall of 1967 as coach and principal and moved to Orlando the next year. In addition to serving as principal, he has coached, taught safety education, industrial arts, and other classes.

Mr. Lorance Retires

Mr. Lorance has been a part of our school system since the two schools were combined — the 1968-69 school year. He retired in October of 1986.

Students remember . . . the good things he said about them at sixth grade graduation, running to the gas house for gym, getting caught sticking kids with thumb tacks . . . just the way he was, a kind, friendly principal. We will all miss him.

LABOUR OF LOVE

UB40

The year of 1986-87 has been very memorable for us all. It has been filled with all kinds of excitement. One of the most remembered is the week of Sept. 29-Oct. 3. M-O received over 13 inches of rain all together. Buses were stuck days at a time and bridges were washed out, some completely away. Some parts of the bus routes were impassable or avoided entirely. We are lucky to employ the team of drivers we have today!

The headline for this page is in Jeri Bussard's handwriting.

The Sixth Grade made Muhammad's castle out of cardboard for social studies. Muhammad was born in Mecca, around A.D. 570. He married a forty-year-old woman when he was twenty-five years old. In 610, Muhammad began preaching to the people of Mecca. He called his religion Islam. Muhammad's army captured many lands to build a great empire.

The Mullhall-Orlando National Honor Society is in its second year of existence and is still going strong. This year's project was to start Students Against Drunk Driving (SADD). Mr. John Amtmann, president of the Oklahoma County Chapter of Mothers Against Drunk Driving was invited to speak at an assembly.

The inductees for N.H.S. the year of 1986 are Todd Cook (president), Kelli Downs (vice-president), Billy Mike Edwards, Sally Estus, and Kurt Friend (reporter). Teresa Koch, who became a N.H.S. in Guthrie in 1984, is our secretary-treasurer. The 1986 inductees for the Junior Honor Society are Jill Hopfer, Amy Leach, Shaunna Peretto, Albert Rangel, and Roland Taylor.

Oklahoma Honor Society

Every year the top ten percent of the Mulhall-Orlando high school students are chosen for the Oklahoma Honor Society. This year the students chosen were Brian Duncan, Kurt Friend, Todd Cook, Rodney Silvers, Teresa Koch, April Peveto, and Denise Rothermel. The students are chosen according to their semester grades for the second semester grades of the previous year and the first semester of the current year. The honor is only for one year, but many will remember it through the rest of their educational days.

Strength in Numbers

-38 Special

"The FFA is a national organization reaching from the state of Alaska to Puerto Rico, and from the state of Maine to Hawaii." With over 17,000 members in Oklahoma alone, the FFA takes pride in being the world's largest youth organization.

The FFA chapter is the busiest organization as it is active year round. During the summer, alumni camp is held for those members interested in improving their leadership skills. It is funded by the National FFA Alumni Association and organized by state officers. Connelly Wade, who attended last summer says, "Alumni camp is great!! The people there are cool and the girls are good lookin'!"

Although there are stock shows all year round, main show seasons are in the fall and spring. Local, county, district, and state fairs keep the livestock people on their toes. The judging teams are also active during this time.

The officers and greenhand quiz contestants attend a leadership seminar in October. While the greenhands compete, the officers attend workshops such as "How to Promote Participation in State and National Events." At the seminar, the officers get a group picture with state officers and a steak dinner.

The officers also attend the state and national conventions in Oklahoma City and Kansas City, Missouri. At the state convention this year, Mike Fillmore was awarded the State Farmer Degree. These trips are an experience for the officers as well as for Mr. Larman.

"The FFA is more than just farm stuff. It's leadership, public speaking, and a whole lot of fun!"

— Janet Weinkauff.

At the M-O Horse Show, Frank Cunningham and his companion, Mariah, pause to give the judge a final look.

Trey Fillmore completes his last task after a hectic day in the swine barn at the county fair in Guthrie.

The 1986 Christmas program was held at Mulhall. This year there was a new group performing along with the grade school classes. It was the Mullhall-Orlando Glee Club. This was the first year for the school to have a chorus class since 1979. When the class first got started, their voices were a little off, but they had really improved by December. Mr. Cummings is the director of this group.

SYNCHRONICITY

From tryouts in the spring to camp in the summer all the way to basketball season in the fall and winter, with practices, meetings, and fundraisers everywhere in between, it's a wonder they can all stay in sync!

Cheerleaders are here to cheer us up when our school spirit is down. Posters, pep rallies, and those friendly smiles you pass in the hall are a cheerleader's duty. However, cheerleaders are noticed most when filling in the silent spaces at ball games. Their cheers and chants get us on our feet and encourage our teams.

"To be a good squad, every arm motion, leg motion, and word has to be sharp and defined. Synchronicity is hard to obtain with seven very different people and personalities. With the help of our sponsor, Mrs. Sprouse, and our coach, Traci Thrash, this squad has finally gotten it all together — on the court and off." — Head Cheerleader, Janet Weinkauf.

"Cheerleading is a great leadership experience." — Rochelle Henke

A lot of time and hard work go into making homecoming a success. Janet, Stephanie, and Christy sort spirit corsages.

(All cheerleading suits and the mascot suit were made by Betty Fishburn. The mascot head was made by JoVona Oldenburg.)

Partner stunts on the sidelines add to the excitement of the game. "They're also a lot of fun!" — Rosetta Bircket

The high school girls softball team is anxiously awaiting the outcome of a game in order to know its final opponent of the tournament.

Stacey Sylvester winds up while Genelle Koch and Becky Knopf await the hit.

Amy Leach waits for another strike to come across the plate.

The high school girls softball season had a great year until the end, when they met up with a team rival in the finals at districts which put the Panther's season to an end with a 22-5 record. The junior high had a slow season, with the team made up for the most part of seventh graders. They put out their best effort and hope to return next year with a winning season.

Girls Just Want to Have Fun.

We get the tip as Becky outjumps the opponent.

This year the community helped a great deal when it came to buying our new score clock. The clock shows the players' fouls and their numbers, and it has a fancy control box for the scorekeeper. It really helps the fans and players keep up with the game.

With a dribble behind the back, Genelle confuses her guard and beats her to the goal to score two points.

After a quick plan from Coach we are ready to go at it again.

Michelle outsmarts her guard and goes up two as Kim hurries in for a rebound.

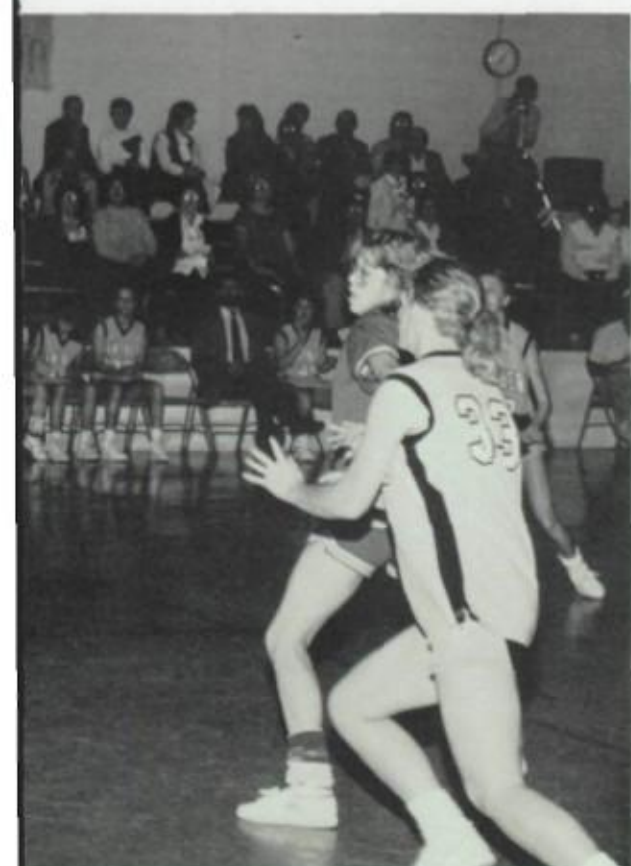

FRONT ROW: Shaunna Peretto (10), and Stephanie Bussard (12). MIDDLE ROW: Valerie Hafner (14), Susie Fishburn (30), Rosetta Bircket, Amy Leach (24), and Kyla Huff (20). BACK ROW: Angela Koch, Genelle Koch (31), Kim Vaughn (23), Michelle Henke (22), Denise Rothermel (25), April Peveto (21), Coach Steve Peretto, Rochelle Henke (11), Becky Knopf (32), Kim Downs (33), Stacey Sylvester (15), Kristie Newbold.

Valerie showing her great ability guarding a tall forward from Ralston.

Shaunna blocks out hard, then goes for the rebound.

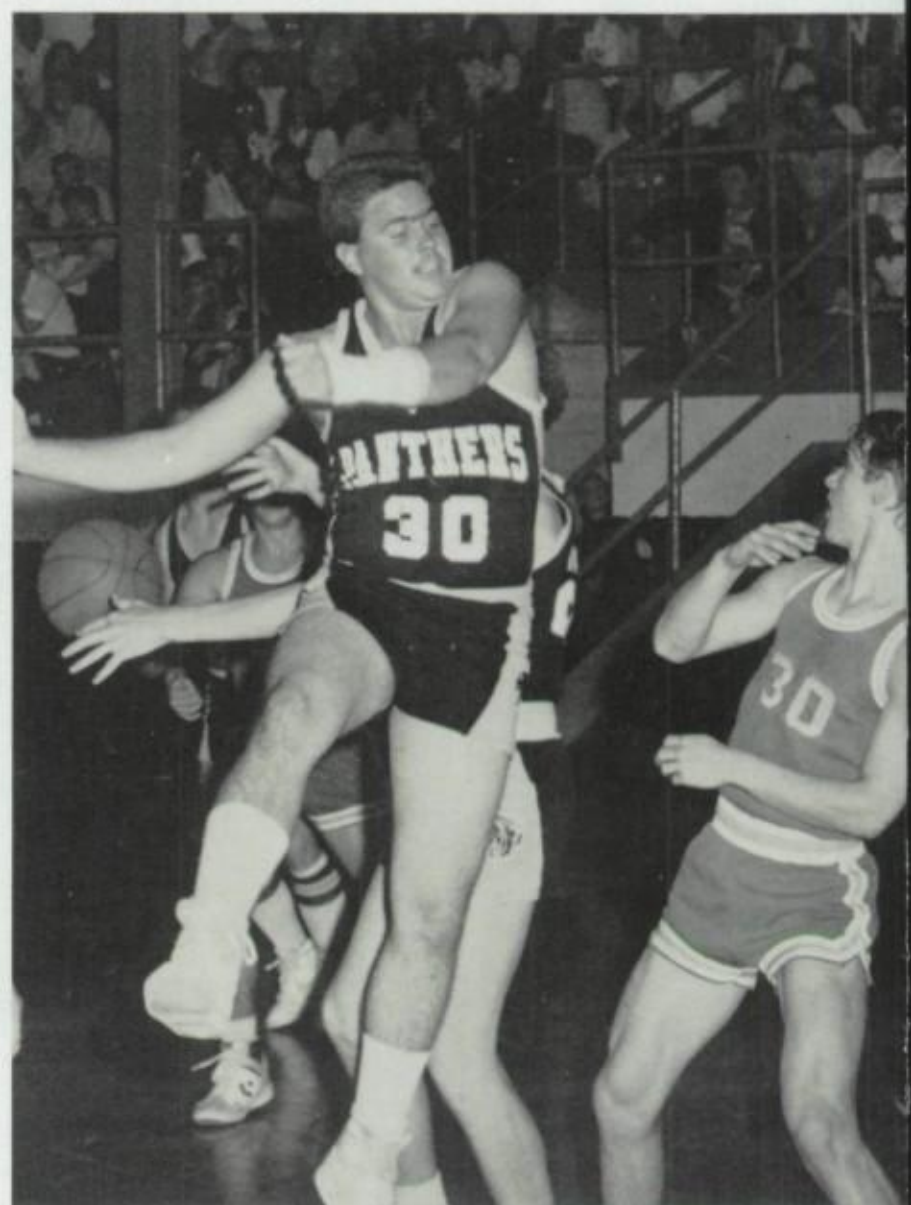

Rochelle and Valerie keep tight guard as Shaunna watches for a sneak play.

CONTROL — Todd Cook takes charge of another tip.

PRESENCE

The M-O basketball team was a PRESENCE on the court this year, winning their first three conference games in a row, making it to the finals of the M-O invitational for only the third time in its eighteen-year history, and placing three players (Todd Cook, Geoff Peveto, and Eddie Betchan) on the all-conference team. Coach Thrash did a great job in his second year ever to coach. Although their season ended at 10-1 with two tough losses, at the end of the season they lost only two first time starters and five players all together. The Panthers will be an even greater presence next year.

NUMBER ONE BAD BOY — Everybody's favorite shot blocker Bubba Leach.

Eddie Betchan appears to have an INVISIBLE TOUCH on the ball as he moves around the defense.

Kurt Friend is GUNG-HO on a drive to the hoop.

LOOK WHAT THE CAT DRAGGED IN — Possibly the best M-O team in years.

INTO THE FIRE — Geoff Peveto jumps in and dishes to Eddie Betchan.

Homecoming King and Queen — Geoff Peveto and Valerie Hafner

On November 21, 1986 the fans and guests at the Mulhall-Orlando Homecoming game witnessed the crowning of the 1986-87 Homecoming Queen. The king and queen were Geoff Peveto and Valerie Hafner.

The theme for the evening was "Now and Forever" and was brought out in the colors of teal and white. The ceremony began with the entire basketball team and cheerleaders entering the court. Following them were the four attendants and their escorts, freshmen to seniors. Finally, through the flashes of cameras, and ooh's and ah's, the entrance of the king and queen could be seen. To complete the romantic setting the song "Somewhere Down the Road" played in the background as the court walked in.

Around the World in a Day

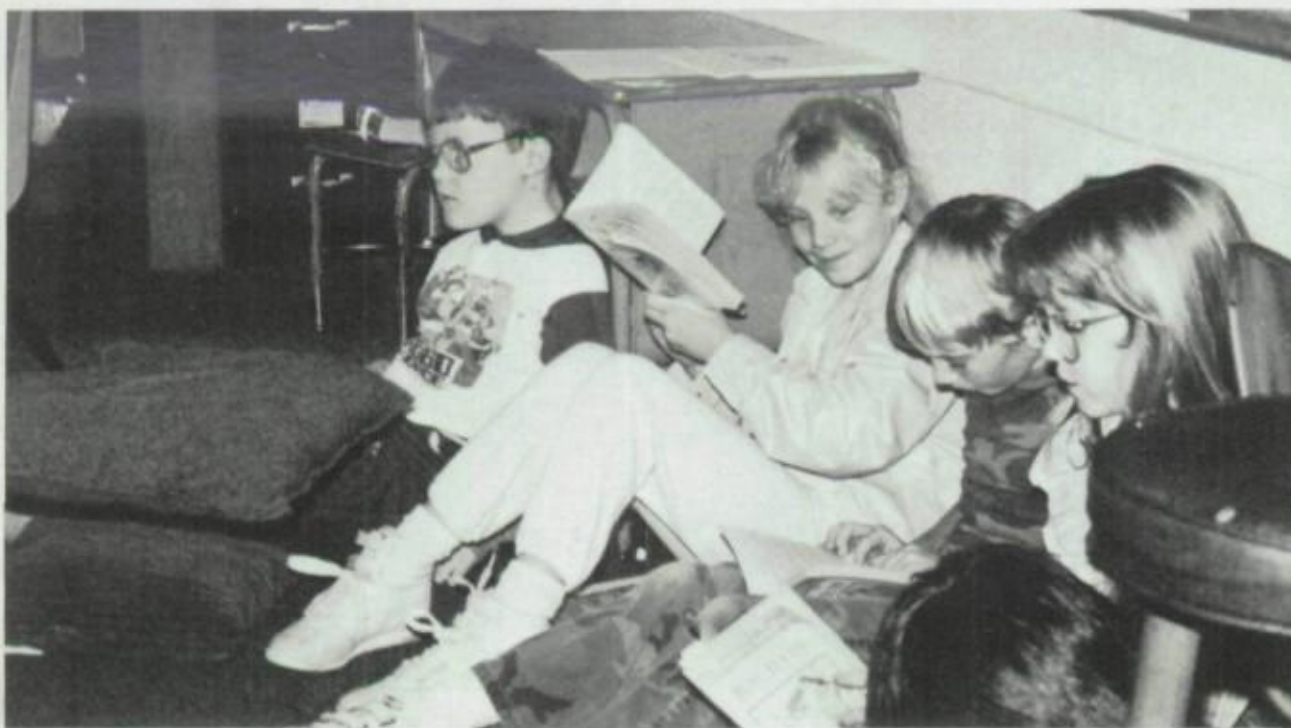

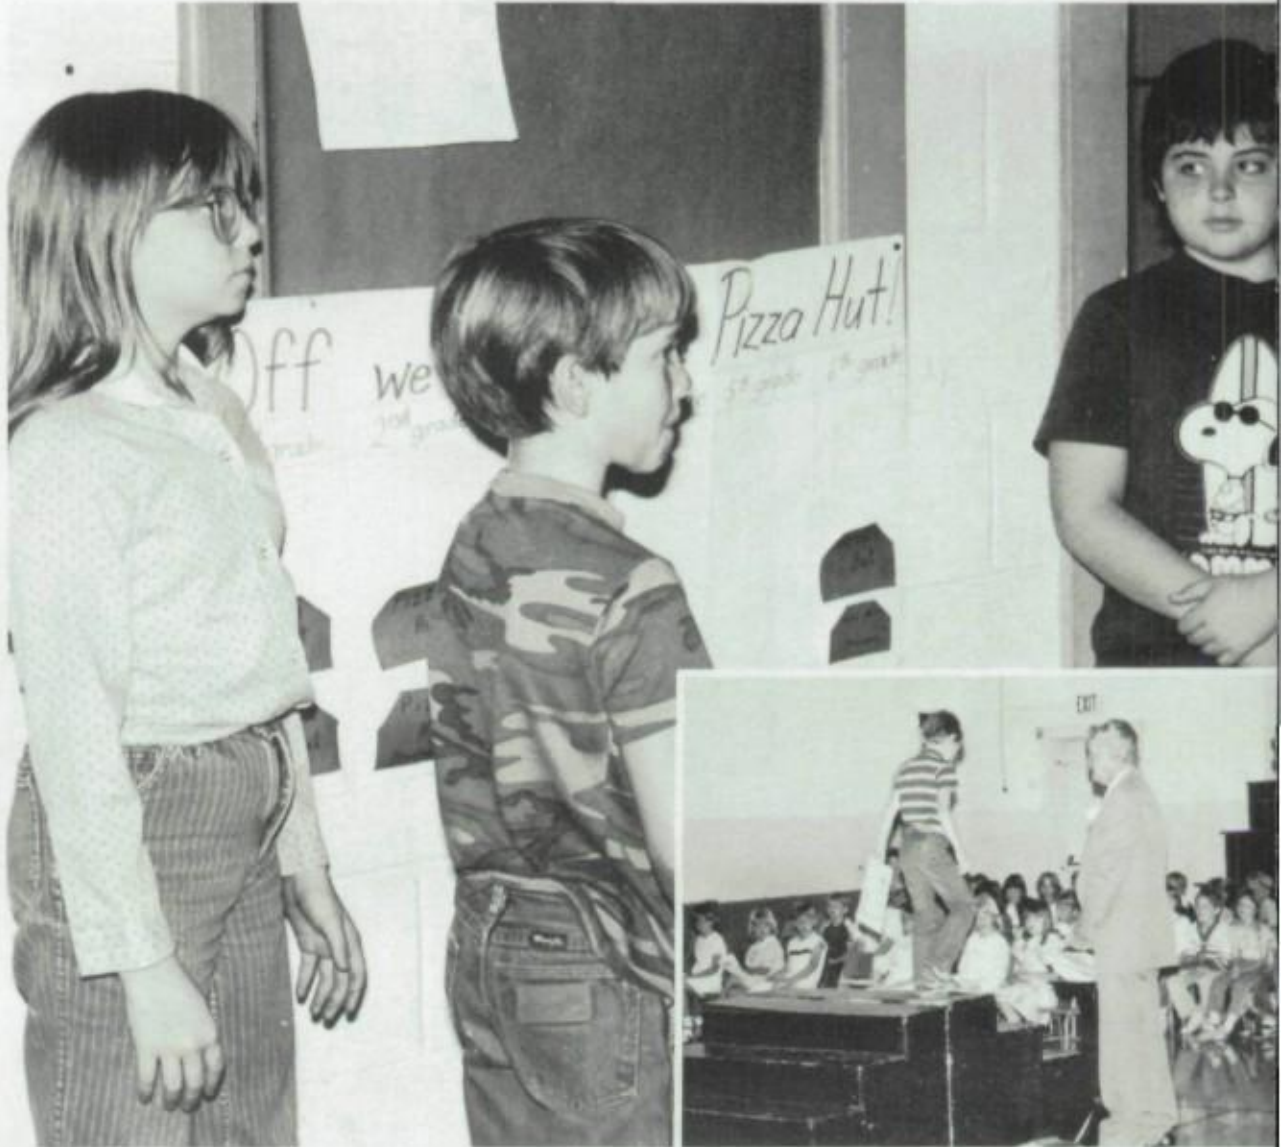

Prince and the Revolution

This year the Pizza Hut sponsored a reading contest where each student reading at least 25 books a month was awarded a free personal pan pizza. Marriya Harrell, Luke Martin, and Prince check the chart to see who's up for the next pizza.

(INSET) Justin Cyphers receives an award from Mr. Lorange for reading 25 or more books.

The world of reading can lead you anywhere you want to go. With that kind of opportunity, it's no wonder that children young and old enjoy reading. Books are a super way to take a trip AROUND THE WORLD IN A DAY.

Winter Cyphers and Marcus Wray explore a new world in the second grade reading wheel.

Ask the fourth graders how they like to spend their time and they will say, "W.E.I.R.D.!!" Decoded that stands for "We Enjoy Independent Reading Daily." (Jason Harman, Misti Jurgens, Jason Kerby, and Carrie Harman)

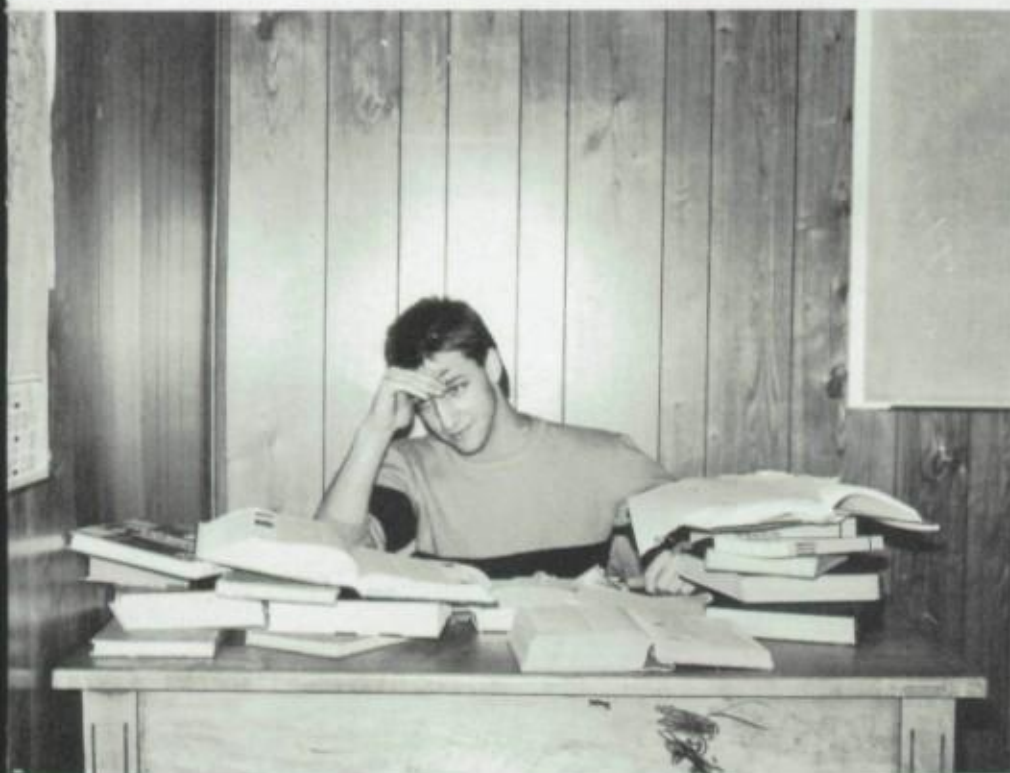

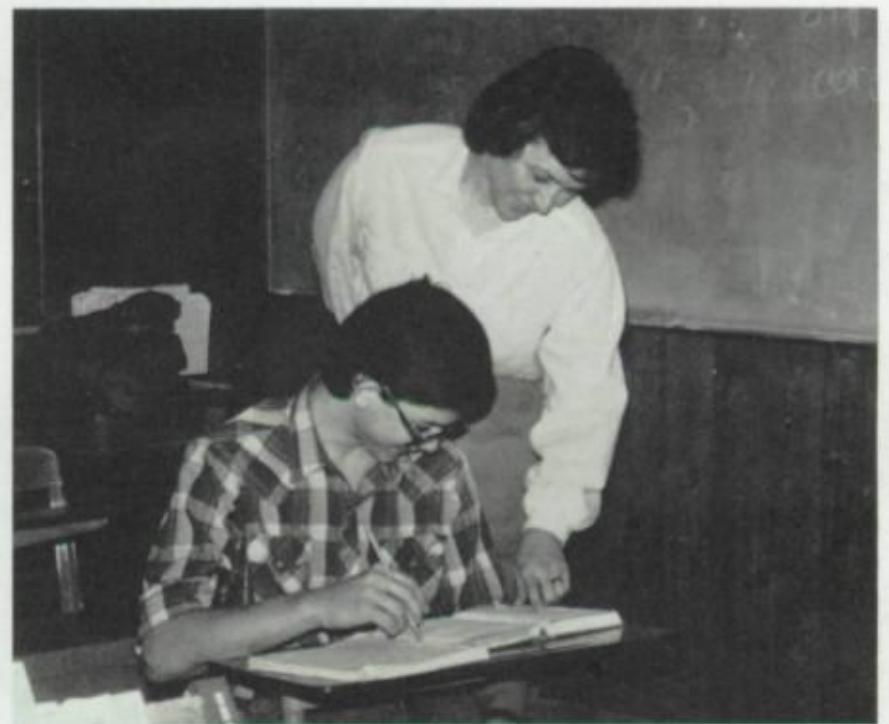

The first grade learns to read with the use of phonics. The sound board is a lot of help. It helps you forget the sound a letter makes. Teacher Fagan shows new students Tim and Shaquon Hurst how to use this neat way to learn to read.

Modern English

Modern English

Sarah Watters diagrams a sentence in Mrs. Sprouse's English class. Sometimes MODERN ENGLISH can be rather tedious and nerve racking.

An outsider might think of a small school as intellectually restrictive. The fact is, in a small school students receive more individual attention from teachers. James Giles needed some help with his prepositional phrases and Mrs. Raupe helped him out with a smile.

anced composition, Mark Hood strains his brain to find information for his ch paper on Gothic novels.

Jennifer Jenkins, Jeri Bussard, Michelle Knight, Brandy Thomason, Dorothy Bode, and Dee Jack work hard to write perfect paragraphs.

"What can I say?" (Jennifer Balderson and Cara Clark writing stories)

No problem is too hard to handle for Matthew Pfeiffer and Jerry Ballinger.

Sondra Major, Monty Larman, Beth Bussard, and Nedra Burgess are becoming electricians as they connect batteries for their science project.

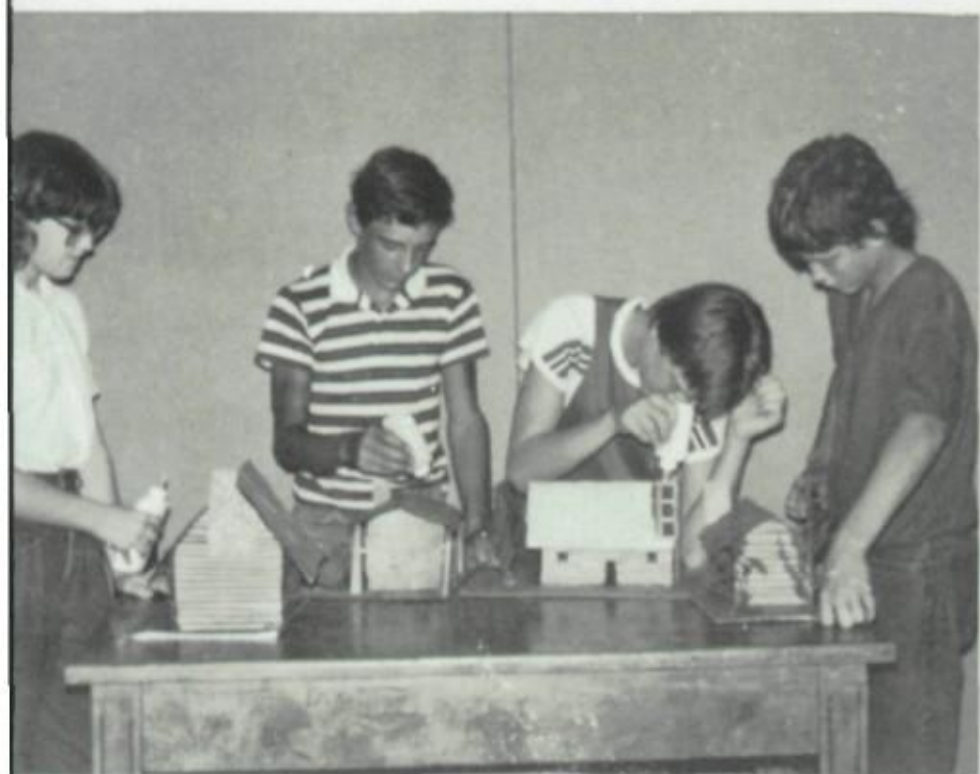

Jason Oldenburg, Dani Green, Stacy Mack, Kristy Lorance, Rodney Cyphers, Martha Nees, Kaky Neugent, and Jennifer Thomason listen to Mrs. Resneder tell one of her wonderful stories.

Hayley Schmiedbauer models her personally constructed summer wear in "Fashion Upbeat," the home economics fashion show which was a highlight of the spring season at M-O.

Dennis Knott and Frank Cunningham reconstruct a stock trailer in vocational agriculture class.

Books had not arrived when school began in the fall, so Keri Adkins, Dennis Knott, Geoffery Koch, and Sean Eisensmith build log cabins for geography projects.

Elliott Evans and Charley McAnally put a puzzle together to help them learn their states and capitals. All students who have been in Mrs. Daniels' fifth grade classes remember this social studies assignment.

(TOP RIGHT) The science classes went to Norman to a science fair. Sheila Edmondson and Kim Vaughn are tired, so they decide to take a short break in front of an OU campus building.

The science classes this year are being taught by Mr. Ball. He teaches General Science, Biology, Chemistry and Physics, which is being taught via the satellite three times a week. Mrs. Dunn teaches seventh grade science.

At the science fair there were many experiments. The tall pole with the boxlike thing going up is a rubber-band powered vehicle. Then there was an egg drop (bottom center). There was also a balsa wood bridge contest. The best bridge held up to 900 lbs. Mr. Ball took the science classes so they could see the projects and learn how they were built so we could have a science fair next year.

Pictured below is M-O's first satellite dish. Inset: Mr. Toepfer, Michelle Henke, and Julie watch the German program. Mrs. Caroline Jones was the monitor last year.

On December 12, 1985, Mulhall-Orlando received their first satellite program. This great feat gave the students another choice in high school curriculum. The class is taught by a professor, Dr. Harry Wolhert, at Oklahoma State University and is transmitted to M-O. The class is offered throughout the state of Oklahoma to any school who has a satellite system or can attain one. Dr. Wolhert has been a U.S. citizen for 25 years and also teaches a German course at O.S.U. "Aufwiedersen"

Last year Dr. Wolhert came to the school to teach the class for one day. Kelli Shafer, Geoff Peveto, Janet Weinkauf, and Teresa Koch listen intently.

At the end of the German program last year's students received awards of recognition. A them was Kelli Shafer, who is pictured with Dr. Wolhert. Bottom Right

The End!

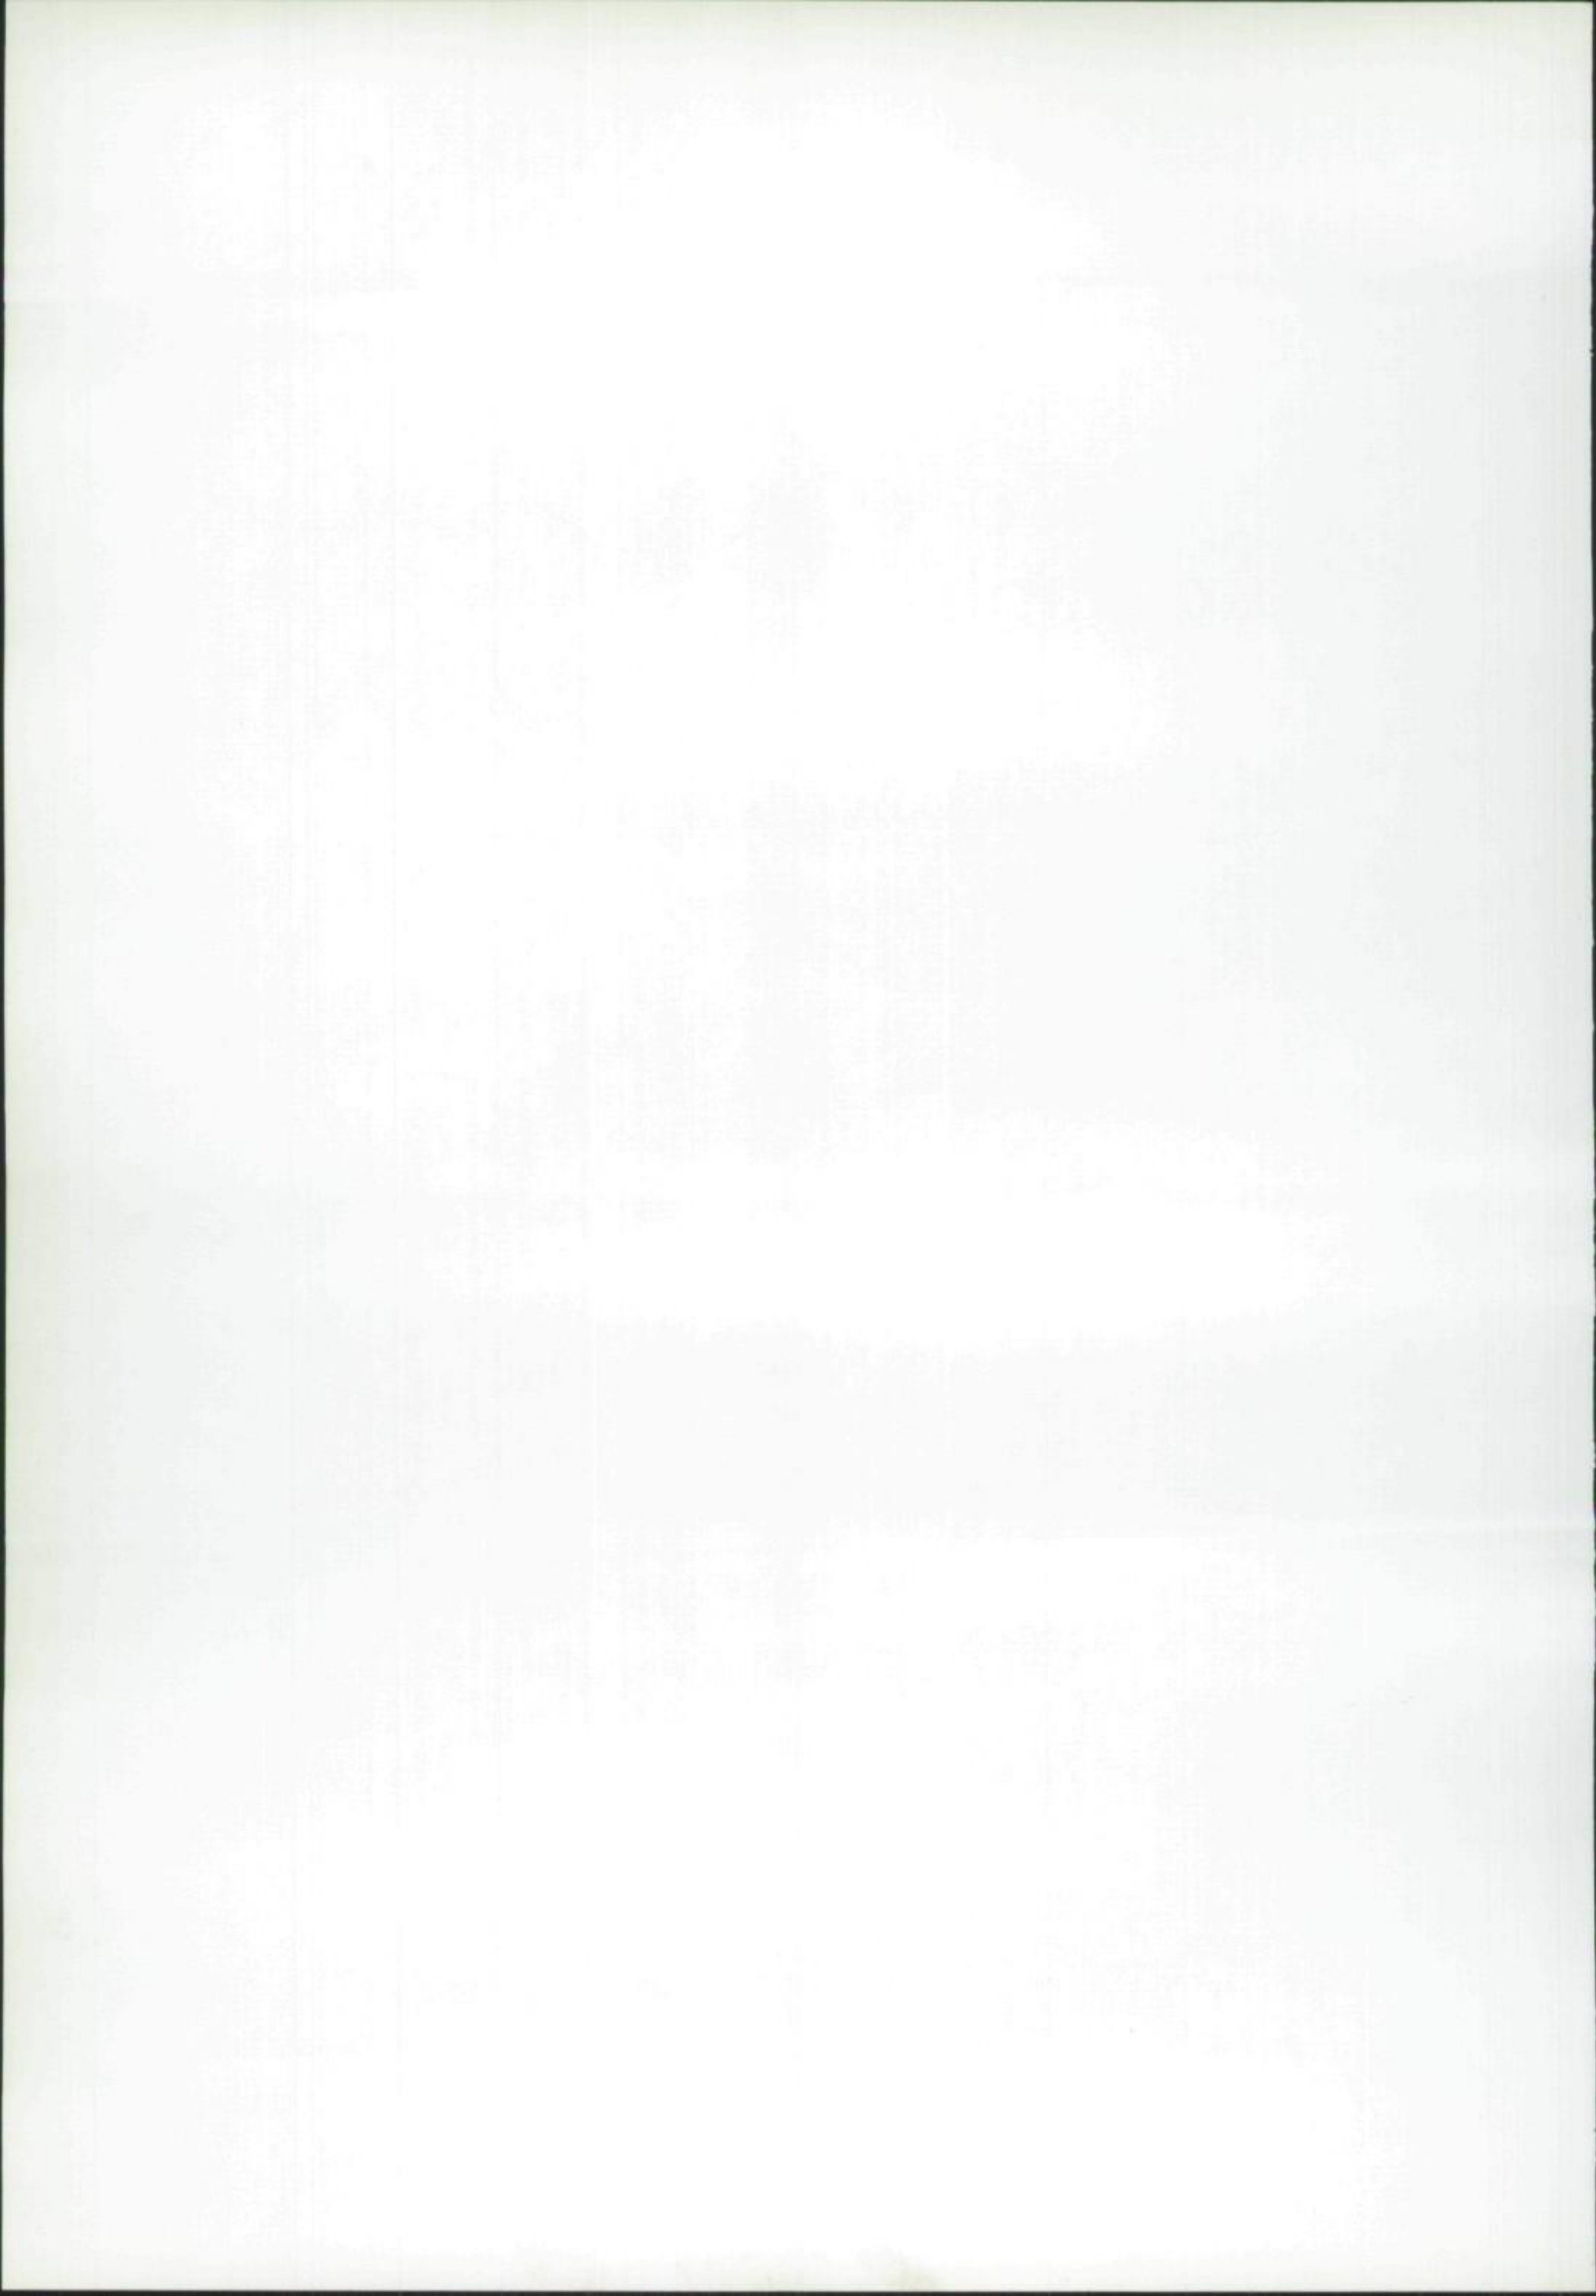

Metamorphosis

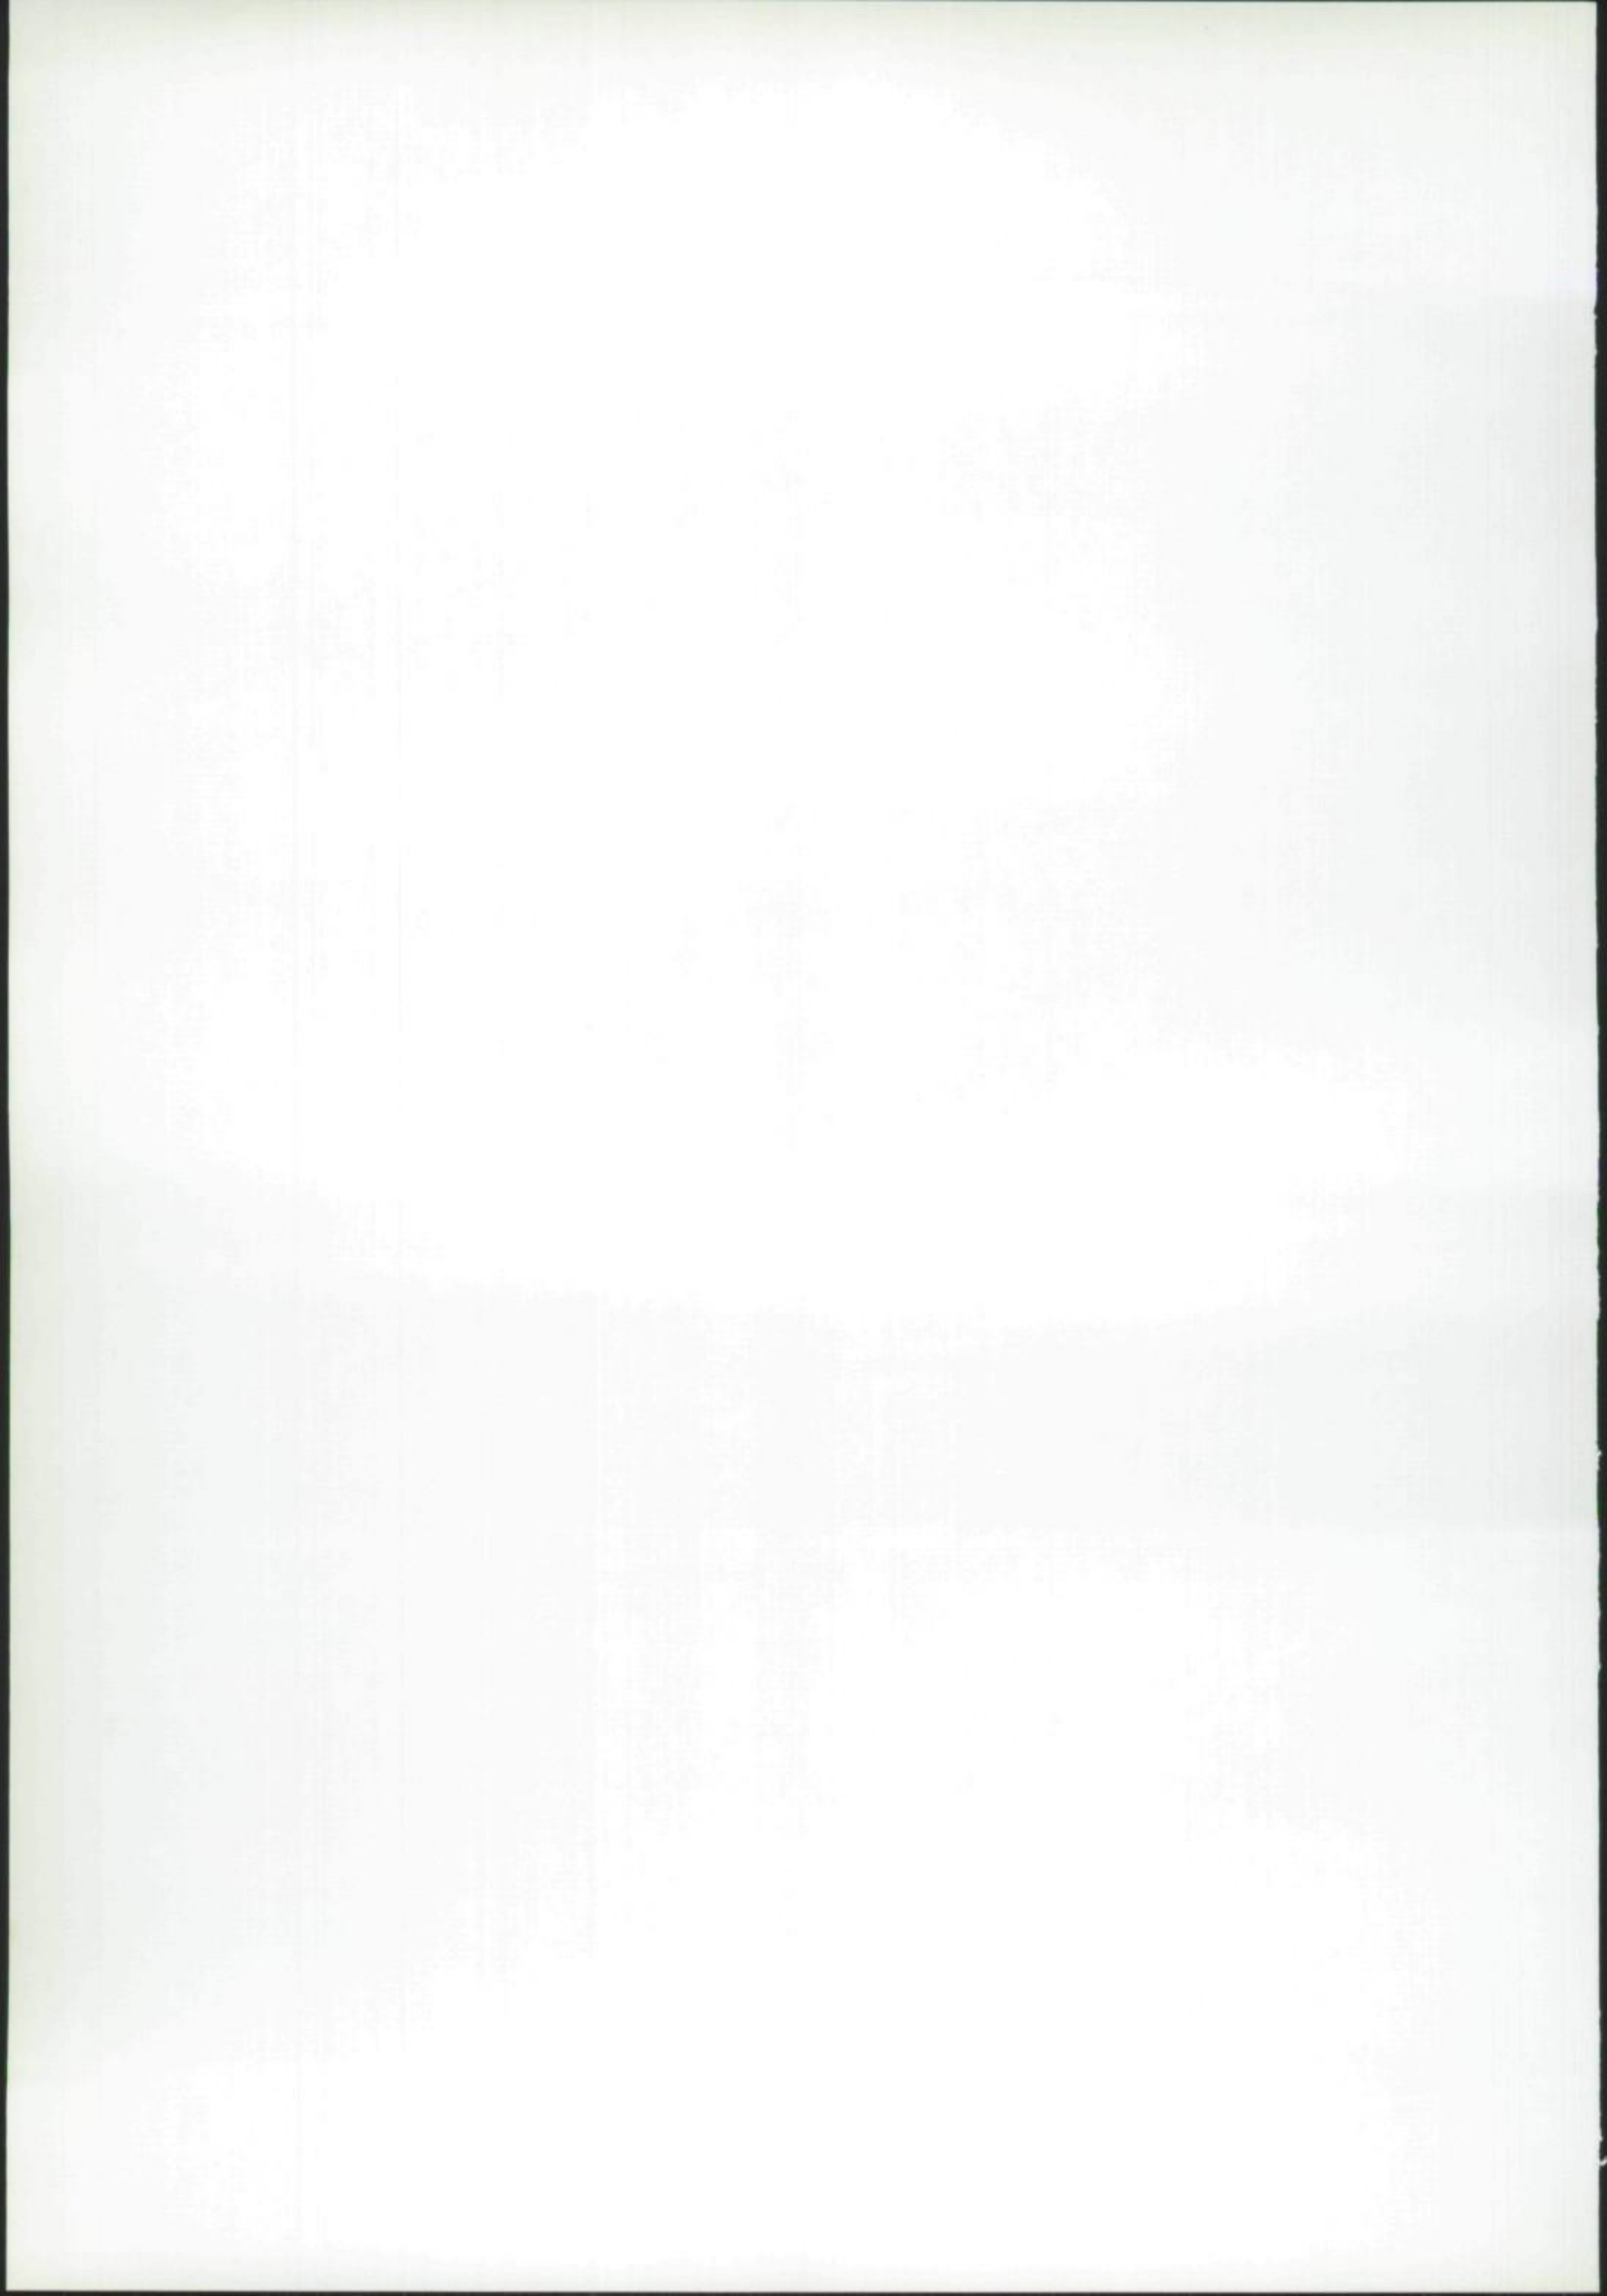

*It frightens me to think that
The adults in our world
Were once like me.
Someday, we will have to take over their jobs.
How soon they forget the joys of being young.
I never will.
I will be a teenager forever.
The responsibility scares me.
The youngsters of tomorrow
Will see me
As I see the adults of today.
I don't want to accept that image.
I could never
Change that much.
Gradually discarding my opinions,
Metamorphosising.*
